4 Advantages of the EIPACC Approach

The European General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) sets strict obligations for processing any personal data coming from the European Union territory.

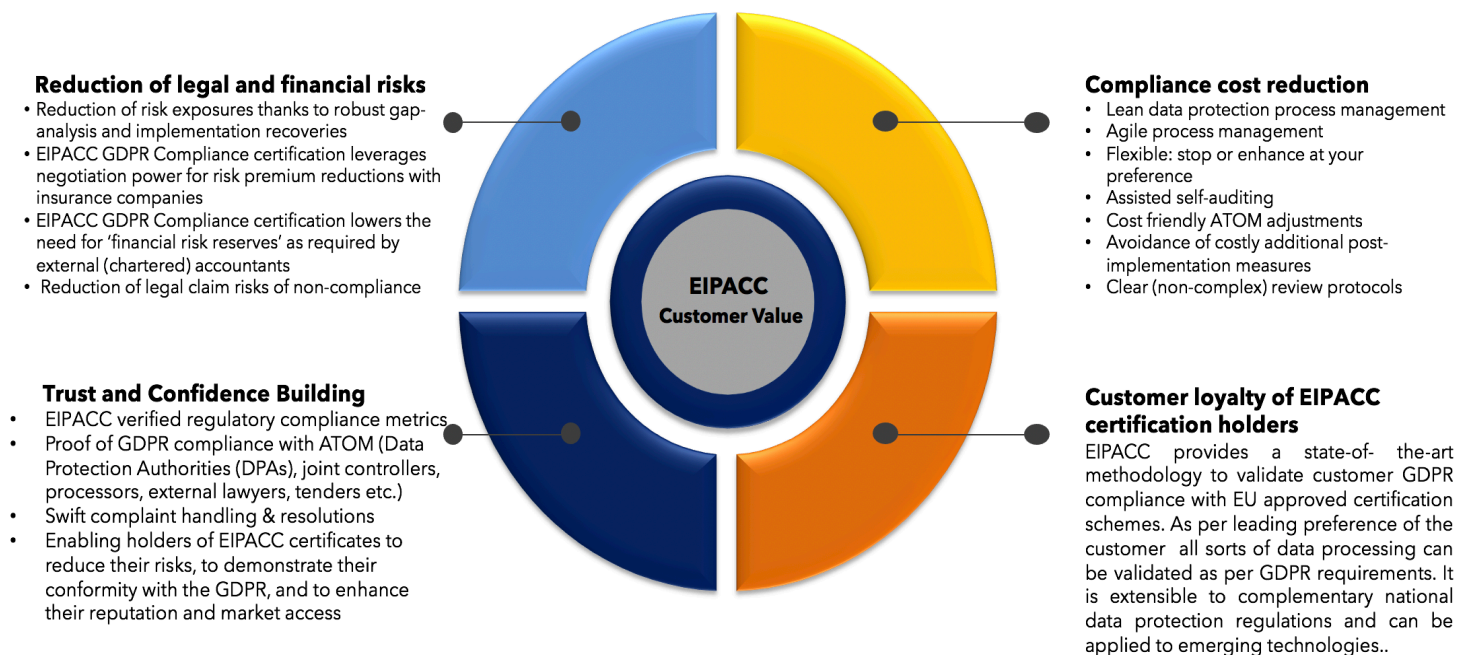

Advantages of the EIPACC Approach

5 Why companies prefer EIPACC GDPR validated certificates

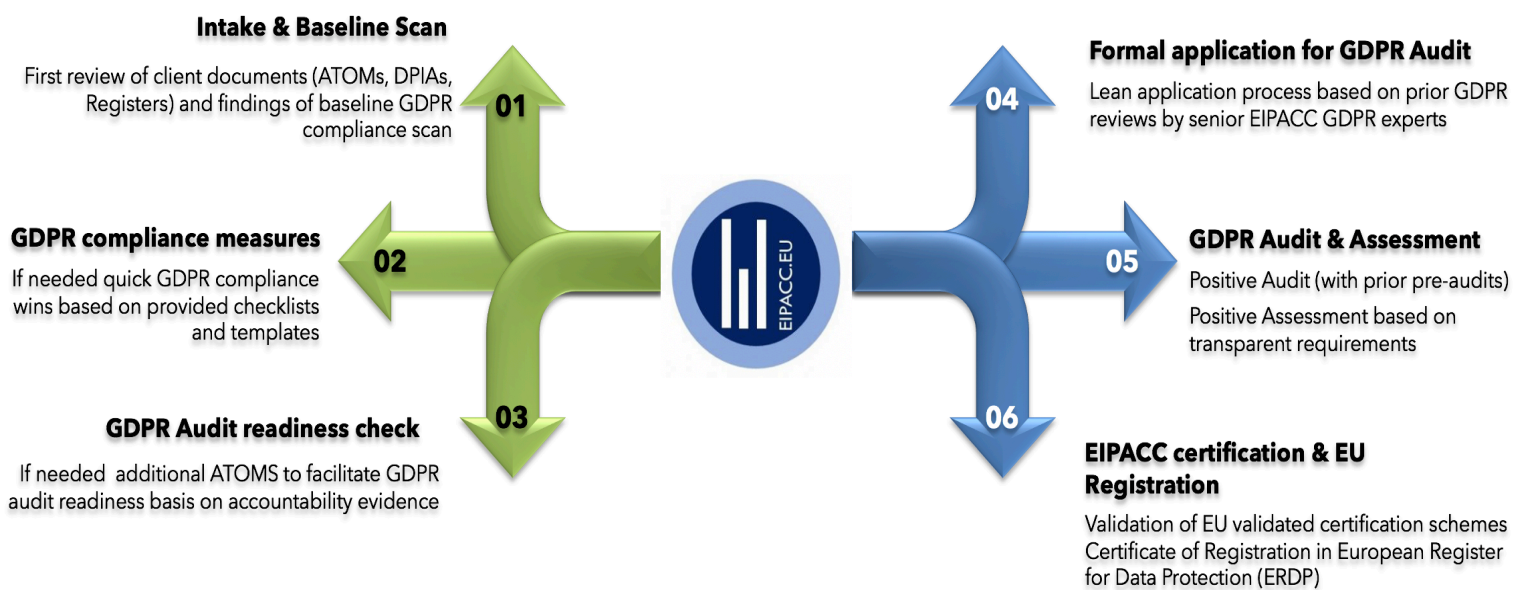

EIPACC provides a state-of-the-art methodology to certify the conformity of all sorts of data processing with the GDPR. It is extensible to complementary national data protection regulations and can be applied to emerging technologies. It enables applicants to reduce their risks and to demonstrate their conformity.

Holders of an EIPACC GDPR certificate take pride in evidencing GDPR compliance as a source of competitive advantage for companies committed to protect personal data as per the requirements of the GDPR. It can facilitate their B2B and B2G relations in Europe, including tender actions and RFP's from private companies.

6 Quick start towards GDPR audits and certifications

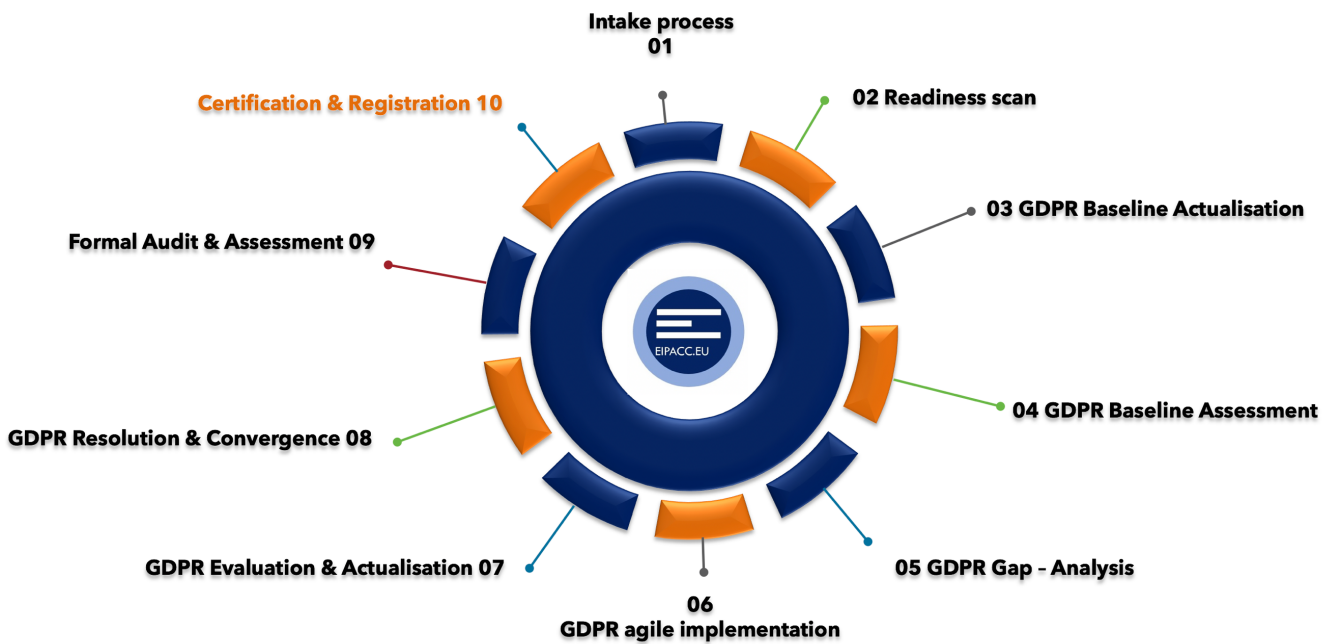

Based on many years of GDPR compliance experience, EIPACC senior GDPR auditors have successfully launched and applied an interesting mechanism to help companies and organisations to jump-start GDPR compliance audits by providing practical support (checklists and templates) and applying agile methods set to accomplish milestones as per prior approved priorities. Based on small iterations of scoped audits, a set of EIPACC certificates can be acquired which can be of great value to showcase external robust commitments towards GDPR compliance, acquisition and retention of new end-customers our EIPACC clients.

7 EIPACC audit and certification process steps

The EIPACC approach offers more than just some management support and assistance towards GDPR certification and EU registration. Each process-centered logical sequence is primarily designed to actively add to evidencing GDPR accountability in order to help ensuring EIPACC clients to comply with obligations pursuant to the GDPR.

While maintaining high standards, as per the EIPACC approach nine consecutive steps are followed to make sure that all step-based SMART deliverables are accomplished to the long-term, sustainable interests of EIPACC clients, providing for competitive advantages for companies committed to protect personal data as per the requirements of the GDPR. Thanks to continuous enhancements, GDPR compliance risk exposures can be managed, the occurrence of legal and financial claims can be lowered and trust and confidence of end-clients of EIPACC certificate holders can be preserved and enhanced.

8 EIPACC Certified GDPR training & continuous e-guidance

If so required EIPACC clients can be fully supported by the EIPACC ecosystem of qualified partners (providers of certified GDPR trainings and partner consulting firms).

Based on the GDPR compliance maturity status and/or GDPR audit readiness scan of EIPACC clients a comprehensive certified GDPR in-company training program can be assembled as per the pre-identified needs of EIPACC clients concerned.

Every data controller (e.g. employer) or processor (e.g. an outsourced IT service provider inside or outside the EU who processes personal data of EU based clients) in the sense of the GDPR) has (pursuant to Article 39 (1)(b) GDPR and internal company policies) a legal obligation to:

1. Train staff involved in processing operations and
2. Raise awareness of GDPR obligations
3. Provide proof of awareness-raising and training of staff

Proof of awareness-raising and appropriate staff training can be provided by EIPACC certifications.

EIPACC partners provide comprehensive training courses to those interested in obtaining an official training as per EU certification schemes. EIPACC GDPR trainings offer a customised learning experience to a wide variety of relevant professionals, including Data Protection Officers, data stewards, data security experts, GDPR implementation specialists and internal GDPR auditors (just to name a few).
